

Policy: Unsatisfactory performance and misconduct

Purpose

To inform staff of the principles that underpin the management of unsatisfactory performance and misconduct at the University.

Overview

Where unsatisfactory performance or misconduct has been identified, this policy seeks to support and enable staff to perform at their best, in order to continue to contribute to the ongoing success of the University.

Scope

This policy applies across the University.

Policy statement

Performance and conduct expectations

1. The University endeavours to assist staff members to perform to a high standard through the setting of performance objectives against University goals, regular feedback and the provision of development opportunities.
2. The University's conduct expectations are specified in University Codes, including the Code of Conduct and Codes of Practice.

Managing unsatisfactory performance and misconduct

3. Where a staff member is not able to demonstrate performance or conduct to a satisfactory standard, action is taken to address the unsatisfactory performance or misconduct. Such action occurs in a timely manner.
4. The preferred outcome of an unsatisfactory performance or misconduct process is that a staff member improves his or her performance to contribute to the ongoing success of the University.

5. Unsatisfactory performance or misconduct that is not remediated may result in disciplinary action. Serious misconduct may result in termination of employment.

6. A staff member:

- * is afforded procedural fairness;
- * may seek procedural advice from Human Resources;
- * has the right to representation; and
- * may seek a review of decision.
